University Recognition & Awards Program

FOR SHRA AND EHRA NON-FACULTY
EMPLOYEES

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University's Recognition & Awards Program (University Employee Recognition & Awards Program) serves to highlight the excellence that exists in all areas and job functions across the university by rewarding the accomplishments and achievements of permanent, full-time SHRA and EHRA Non-Faculty employees of N.C. A&T—excluding executive administrators (Senior Academic Administrative Officer, Tiers I and II). Nominees for awards must have three consecutive years of service (permanent full-time) with N.C. A&T as well as meet the respective criteria for selection.

Across the N.C. A&T campus, employees are nominated by their respective college, school or division. (Note: All nominators must be permanent employees of North Carolina A&T State University.) These nominees are then submitted to the University Employee Recognition Committee to determine the five university-level winners (a maximum of one winner per award).

All nominees are invited to attend a banquet where the five award winners receive a plaque.

The five awards for which employees may be nominated are listed below:

- University Award for Excellence in Leadership
- University Award for Excellence in Teamwork
- University Award for Excellence in Performance
- University Award for Excellence in Customer Service
- The Aggie Pride Award (Going the Extra Mile)

UNIVERSITY AWARD FOR AGGIE PRIDE (GOING THE EXTRA MILE)

The University Award for Aggie Pride is granted to any permanent, full-time SHRA or EHRA Non-Faculty employee of North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University—excluding university administrators (Senior Academic Administrative Officer, Tiers I and II)—with three consecutive years of service (permanent, full-time) with N.C. A&T and who exemplifies the following qualities:

- Demonstrates enthusiasm and high self-esteem in the quality of output
- Engages in innovative thinking and projects
- Willingness to make commitments and keep promises in pursuit of team goals
- Demonstrates an ability to consistently make a significant positive impact beyond the university, and within the person's larger community
- Expressions of pride through volunteering for special projects and events
- Demonstrates a positive attitude, and consistent dedication to the university and others with whom they interact

The recipient of this award has demonstrated the true spirit of Aggie Pride on and off the job with passion and enthusiasm. The recipient must have made a unique contribution by embracing the university spirit and has demonstrated examples of high-quality of service, and a track record of building relations that lead to continuous improvement. This award is to recognize an employee that consistently goes above and beyond the call of duty, to shape the future for others and the university.
